White House Keeps Clamp on Conference By Aides on Battle Of McCarthy, Army

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration today refused to lift a bar against further testimony about a high-level conference by White House aides and others on the boiling dispute between Sen. McCarthy and the Army.

Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch advised the Senate subcommittee investigating the dispute that "as of this hour" — 2:30 p.m. — there was no change in this stand. The subcommittee was then a half hour along in its afternoon meeting.

At the afternoon session, it had asked a report after the luncheon recess on who gave the orders and whether they could be changed.

Welch referred to the Jan. 21 meeting in Atty. Gen. Brownell's office as a sort of "intra mural conference of the executive department on the highest level."

Army Counselor John G. Adams, on the witness stand in the 17th day of the hearings, had refused to answer questions about the meeting which he had first mentioned on Wednesday.

Adams said he was under instructions from higher up. He agreed to consult during the luncheon recess and report further on the source of his instructions.

However, when he resumed his testimony this afternoon Adams referred the subcommittee to Welch. Welch said the instructions to Adams still stand. He declined further information.

Under an agreement between Welch and Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) who first raised the issue, the matter was not pressed further at this point.

Symington and Welch agreed that the subcommittee would go into the subject further next Monday.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said he felt the subcommittee is entitled to know what went on at the conference.

Unless he can be shown some law prohibiting it, McClellan said he will insist that those who attended the conference be called to testify.

Welch agreed, insofar as his power would permit, to try to bring in Monday the name of the official responsible for the instructions to Adams not to talk about the meeting.

Adams testified Wednesday that at the Jan. 21 conference, Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's top assistant, had suggested that the Army prepare a written document citing his charges that the McCarthy camp brought improper pressure on the Army for favors for G. David Schine.

The wealthy Schine was an unpaid consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee until he was drafted last November.

On by-passing the issue at the afternoon session, the subcommittee temporarily suspended questioning of Adams to receive from its own members accounts of visits they had on Jan. 22 — the day after the Justice Department conference — from Army representatives.

Republican Sens. Dirksen (Ill.), Mundt (SD) and Potter (Mich.) all testified they were approached about the McCarthy subcommittee's announced determination to subpoena members of the Army Loyalty Board for questioning in the subcommittee's hunt for Communists in the Army.

They agreed the purpose of the Army visits was to try to quash these subpoenas.

And there were complaints, too, they said, of alleged improper pressures by Roy Cohn, general counsel to the subcommittee, for preferential treatment for Schine.

Sen. McCarthy contends these visits were efforts to "blackmail" the subcommittee into stopping its investigation of communists in the Army.

They agreed the purpose of the Army visits was to try to quash these subpoenas.

And there were complaints, too, they said, of alleged improper pressures by Roy Cohn, general counsel to the subcommittee, for preferential treatment for Schine.

Potter, last of the three Republicans to tell his story, said the matter was taken up with him by Lewis Berry, deputy Army counselor and a close personal friend.

Potter said he told Berry he felt the right of congressional committees to call witnesses was "quite absolute."

Potter added that he said to Berry he thought members of Loyalty Board, if subpoenaed, would have to appear, but that they could refuse to answer questions if that would violate a presidential directive against discussing loyalty cases.

Repeating that Berry was "a close personal friend," Potter said Berry "never used my friendship in any way to interfere on behalf of the Army or anyone else."

Beautiful Day

All together now, let's sing: "Oh, what a beautiful morning, oh, what a beautiful day."

Fair and a little warmer tonight and Saturday. Low tonight near 50. High Saturday in the upper 70s.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 45; 73 at 1 p.m. and 75 at 2 p.m.

One year ago today here high 65, low 41; two years ago 64, 54; three years ago 63, 53.

Visitors Will See Jets In Action...

'Open House' Sunday at SAFB Will Show Training Material

On Sunday the Mobile Training detachment at Sedalia Air Force Base, whose headquarters is the 3499th Mobile Training wing at Chanute AFB, Ill., is typical of these units. By "taking the school to the student" and training men at their home base, the expense of transporting these thousands of mechanics to existing technical schools is thus avoided.

One exhibit will be a jet engine used on the B-47, with a section cut away revealing its internal construction and operation, a mock-up of the fuel system with the provisions for aerial refueling. In another of the classrooms will be a working model of the electronic system that is used to fly the aircraft automatically, and with it will be seen a complete set of the instruments which relate vital information to the crew in flight.

Many more trainers showing the electrical, hydraulic, and structural details of the atom bomb will be displayed by these instructors, all specialists in their fields.

Although relatively unknown to the public, mobile training detachments are located in almost every state of the nation and in many foreign countries. They have the responsibility of relaying to the men in the field the latest information on existing aircraft and bringing to them complete information on the newest aircraft being assigned to operating bases. Fires Final H-Explosion For This Year

Announcement States Series Is Completed; Details Are Omitted

WASHINGTON — The United States has fired a final hydrogen explosion in the 1954 test series at the mid-Pacific proving ground.

A joint Atomic Energy Commission - Defense Department announcement said last night the series had been completed and the tests were successful in that the "tests were completed and the development of thermonuclear weapons."

This was much like language used at the end of previous test series and, like the previous announcements, it did not specify how many bombs had been set off. However, three previous explosions had been announced — a mighty blast on March 1, another explosion 26 days later and a third on April 6 — leaving open to speculation whether one or more than one detonation occurred after that time.

"Thermonuclear" is the scientist's term indicating a hydrogen explosion.

Announcement of the end of the series, which drew foreign protests because radioactive particles showered well outside of the test area and came on the same day that a five-power conference in London, aimed at ending the arms race and outlawing nuclear weapon warfare.

The service will begin with the procession, "Cornelius Festival March," played by the high school orchestra. The Rev. J. W. Watts will give the Scripture reading, "Onward Ye Peoples," by St. Bede, will be sung by the Smith-Cotton mixed chorus.

The Rev. Thomas W. Croxton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will lead the prayer, with a choral response by the high school girls' glee club. The Rev. Soxman will then speak.

Chester O'Bannon will sing "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," by Harker. The benediction will be given by the Rev. David M. Funk, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, followed by a choral response by the girls' glee club.

The service will end with the recessional, "Pomp and Circumstance" by the orchestra.

There was some speculation of a connection between the timing of yesterday's announcement, continuing protests abroad and the London conference.

The joint announcement by Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss and Secretary of Defense Wilson said of the 1954 tests: "They were essential to our national interest and have contributed materially to the security of the United States and the free world."

"The tests being concluded, within a few days sea and air traffic may be safely restored within the 'warning area' which was set up for safety purposes for the time when the tests were taking place. Official notice to airmen and mariners will be published."

This could have been an indirect reply and assurance to the complaints abroad.

Although the only foreign nations actually injured by radioactive matter drifting from the test area have been Japanese fishermen, some of the sharpest criticism has come from within Britain.

In a fresh manifestation of this feeling, Laborite Arthur Henderson said Prime Minister Churchill yesterday, "If in view of the great public concern over development of the H-bomb, would the Prime Minister consider proposing that there should be suspension of all hydrogen bomb tests and explosions pending the outcome of the disarmament conference?"

Churchill replied only that he had "no power to give directions to the United States or to the Soviet Union on this subject."

Russia has produced at least one thermonuclear explosion.

Two Pettis Countians Will Be Drafted This Month Into Army

Two Pettis Countians will be drafted into the Army this month. They are Walter Cochran, who has requested a transfer and will be induced from Springfield, Ill., and Harry H. Oelrich, Mora.

Oelrich will leave May 18 for Kansas City, where he will be inducted and sent to Ft. Riley, Kan., for processing and reassignment. He will leave Sedalia about the 12:40 p.m. Missouri Pacific train.

There will be no one drafted from Pettis County in June.

French Begin Evacuation Of Wounded

Transport Plane Fails To Bring First Group From Luan Prabang

HANOI, Indochina — The French announced that an airlift of their seriously wounded troops from Dien Bien Phu began today. But a transport plane scheduled to bring the first contingent here from Luang Prabang failed to show up.

French Army spokesman said they had no news about the plane. It was reported, however, that the first group of about 16 wounded taken out of Dien Bien Phu by helicopter were in a critical condition, having head and stomach wounds, and therefore it may have been necessary for them to rest overnight at Luang Prabang, the royal Laotian capital, 250 miles south west of here.

The French said earlier today that wounded had been landed at Luang Prabang about noon.

Another factor that may have caused delay was the weather. Heavy tropical storms were hitting Laos and the Dien Bien Phu area.

Indications from the Vietnamese had been that about 450 of the fallen fortress' wounded would be

That figure was 250 previously. French estimates of the number of serious cases. The Communist rebels had reported they captured 1,400 wounded in all when Dien Bien Phu fell a week ago.

The French high command announced the first contingent of the most gravely wounded arrived about noon today at the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang, 15 miles to the southwest. Dakota transport planes were to rush them from there to Hanoi and other points with hospital facilities.

A total of 32 wounded were expected in Hanoi by late this afternoon.

Since only helicopters and small planes can use the war-battered, shell-pocked Dien Bien Phu air strip, the French expected the airlifting of the 450 men to take at least two weeks. The planes could carry only one, three or six passengers each.

In the Red River delta, meanwhile, the French counted new "serious losses" after beating off an attack by 2,000 to 3,000 rebels yesterday near Phu Ly, only 30 miles south of Hanoi.

It was the biggest attack so far this year in the delta, the major Viet Cong target since the fall of Dien Bien Phu.

Reliable sources said that Dr. Peter Huard, Hanoi University medical dean who flew to Dien Bien Phu yesterday to arrange the airlift with the Vietnamese, did not obtain any information on the fate of Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, heroic commander of the garrison of Geneva, de Gaulle Terrasse.

The Navarre plan, the basis on which extensive American aid was provided, was considered valid right up to the time of the big-unit assaults which finally overran the French stronghold of Dien Bien Phu.

French sources say the talks which Paris wants should "explore all phases of the situation" and that they should be at a government or Cabinet level.

The Navarre plan, the basis on which extensive American aid was provided, was considered valid right up to the time of the big-unit assaults which finally overran the French stronghold of Dien Bien Phu.

Russians Change Proposal

They Now Suggest Placing Settlement Under Supervision Of Neutral Group

GENEVA — Russia proposed today that any settlement of the Indochina conflict be carried out under the supervision of a neutral nations' supervisory commission. This represented a major modification in the Communist position.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov made his proposal a few minutes before French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault had declared international control was an essential condition in any settlement.

Molotov conceded that the earlier proposal of Communist Vietnam did not provide for adequate supervision and then submitted his own proposal as a supplement to the Vietnamese plan.

There was no immediate word from the Western powers as to whether the Soviet proposal would satisfy them on the question of supervision.

Bidault did not spell out just what sort of "international commission" he had in mind but apparently the West has been thinking of some sort of neutral nation's body.

There still are other major points of difference between the Bidault plan and the Communist terms, but the Molotov move was the first major shift in the East-West deadlock. Bidault made what appeared to be some concessions but they were not on major points.

Molotov again assailed the United States.

"American Interference in Indochina is now ever increasing," he declared, "in the form of deliveries of armament and military equipment and in sending advisers, instructors, technicians, etc."

"This is the main obstacle on the way to reestablishment of peace in Indochina. Moreover, interference leads to extending the scale of military operations in Indochina with all the consequences it implies."

The French position was spelled out by Bidault less than 24 hours after the government of Premier Joseph Laniel received a slim vote of confidence.

One of the apparent concessions was that mixed organs, made up of Viet Nam and Vietnamese representatives, might be created as long as they functioned under international authority and control.

Bidault also said the French government may be prepared to withdraw French forces from Laos and Cambodia if Vietnamese forces were also withdrawn from the two kingdoms.

But he said, the withdrawal of French forces from Viet Nam was dependent on "the pursuit of the war" and declared the French government was not prepared to make the establishment of peace in Indochina dependent on any undertaking for the withdrawal of French forces from Viet Nam.

Bidault devoted much of his speech to a detailed criticism of the settlement proposals submitted earlier in the conference by the Communist-led Vietnamese regime.

He criticized them for failing to provide for the disarmament of irregular guerrilla forces and for their failure, so far as the French are concerned, to establish a work

Says Russian Jet Bomber Aimed at US

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining said today the new Russian heavy jet bomber, comparable in size to the huge American B-52, was developed for sole purpose of reaching "important targets in the United States."

The Air Force chief of staff also said, in a speech placing heavy emphasis on the recent Russian displays of air power over Moscow, that the Soviet Union now has "thousands more combat planes" than the U.S. Air Force, Navy, Marines and Army combined.

Twining's estimate, contained in an Armed Forces Day address prepared for delivery here, seemed in apparent conflict with that made last month by Rep. Scrivner (R-Kan.), chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee handling military funds. Scrivner said the United States outnumbers Russia by a 3-to-2 ratio in the air.

However, it was not clear whether Scrivner was referring to overall air strength, in all types of planes, or to combat craft. Neither is there any precise definition of a "combat" plane applicable to both nations.

There has been official announcement that as of last January the U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine corps had about 33,000 planes of all types, of which one-third were jets. Russian strength has been estimated at 20,000 planes in active service, 20,000 in reserve.

Actually, Twining's speech was prepared for delivery here tomorrow. However, the Air Force in Washington inadvertently issued it for publication today.

Gen. Kent reported on his impressions of the recent state convention at Joplin.

President Mike Bogutski read a letter of appreciation from retiring State President Jack Faber for the cooperation of the Sedalia club during his term of office. The club then gave Mr. Faber a standing vote of thanks for the splendid job which he carried on as state president.

The club voted to sponsor a local junior golf tournament for the fourth consecutive year, the winner of which will go to the state tournament at Marshall in July.

Four potential new members were introduced.

Kenneth Ray, manager of the Jaycees Little League team, reported on the team's progress and Dan Weller, manager of the Jaycees softball team, announced that the team's next game will be played Friday night at nine o'clock at Housell Park.

Demos Override GOP Support Of ICC Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats yesterday overrode Republican filibuster of a bill designed to speed Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) action on requests by railroads and other carriers for higher rates.

The measure, sponsored by Sens. Bricker (R-Ohi), Capahart (D-Ind.) and Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo), was described by Democratic opponents as a "grab" for the railroads for quick rate increases.

Bricker said the ICC's rate fixing processes are so slow that in grade girls; benediction, Rev. W. J. Cox; recessional, Mrs. Wallace.

Janice Potter
Wed In Raton,
New Mexico

Miss Janice Luella Potter, daughter of Mrs. Howard Christie, Pueblo, Colo., and Mr. Kenneth Potter Beaman, became the bride of Pvt. DeWane Wilbur Shumaker, son of Mr. Ernest J. Schumaker, Pueblo, Colo., Saturday noon at twelve o'clock, April 24, at the parsonage of the First Christian Church at Raton, N. M. The Rev. E. A. Eastman performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white nylon embroidered eyelet over white satin. Her veil of illusion was attached to a band of pink and blue forget-me-nots. Her flowers were pink carnations and her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a wed-ding party was held at the Columbine Palace with the Dusty Payne orchestra furnishing the music.

The bride will be a senior at Pueblo Central High School and will continue her studies while her husband completes his military service. While living in Sedalia, she attended Smith-Cotton High School and resided at 200 East Tower.

The groom is stationed at Fort Ord, Calif., and before entering the service was employed as an electrician apprentice at the Pueblo Ordnance Depot. He is also a graduate of the Pueblo Central High School.

Baccalaureate
For Knob Noster
Seniors Sunday

The baccalaureate service for the Knob Noster High School seniors was held Sunday, May 9, in the school auditorium.

Elder John T. Nutt, pastor of the RLDS Church in Knob Noster, was the speaker. The platform was decorated with baskets of iris and spirea.

The school band, under the direction of Eugene Johnson, played "Pomp and Chivalry," as the graduates entered. The girls wore white caps and gowns and the boys wore blue.

Elder R. E. Burgess gave the invocation, followed by a congregational hymn led by Mr. Johnson and accompanied by Ann Bowland. The rest of the program was as follows: trumpet solo, "Adieu," Eugene Vaughn; girl's sextet composed of Gwen Lee, Marie Draper, Mary Jo Chick, Louanna Judd, Shirley Benz and Ann Bowland sang, "Come Kingdom of Our God," with Mr. Johnson as accompanist.

Supt. A. C. Teague presided and made announcements. Leonard Clark gave the benediction and for a recessional, the band played, "Great Gate of Kiev."

Senior class officers and members are: president, Edwin Dale Lynde; vice president, Claude Dean Parrott; secretary, Clyde Gene Parrott; and treasurer, Charles O'Bannon Marshall, Doris Marie Bailey, Wilford Wayne Brandt, Robert E. Brinkhofer, Ethel Jane Bullard, Eleanor Irene Chick, Alfred Cockrum, Vernon Ray Cockrum, Phyllis Jean Cooper, Norma Jean Dirick, Samuel Siess, Harold Field, Charles Eugene Herbrand, James David Lyon, Mary Lee Lyle, Fred William McKeenan, Verna Nadine Miles, Donald H. Moore, Rodney R. Murphy, Rose Evelyn Parrott, Ruby Erleen Poese, Lester M. Schubert, Billy Lee Siegfried and Halie Strickland.

Faculty sponsor for the senior class are Mrs. Harold Visser and John Snider.

The final concert of the season, by the Smith-Cotton High School band, orchestra and mixed chorus presented a musical program to a large crowd Thursday evening.

The concert, which began at 8 p.m., was opened with the Smith-Cotton Orchestra. They played Tschaikowsky's "Andante" and "Manx Overture." Also featured with the orchestra was Ann Marquess who played a piano solo "Spinning Wheel," accompanied by the orchestra.

The mixed chorus, which included members of the Junior-Senior girls glee club and the boys glee club, sang "Joobalai," arranged by Ades; "Vaya Con Dios" arranged by Ades; and "Onward, Ye People," by Sibelius. This group was accompanied by Ann Marquess.

Smith-Cotton High School's concert band appeared last on the evening's program and presented a varied selection of band music.

They opened their part of the program with "La Sarela March" by Cleare. Next they played "Italian March in Algiers," an overture by Rossini. After the overture, the band played one of the famous Sousa marches, "Manhattan Beach March" and "Student Prince" by Romberg. They also played "Tubbs" by the Tuba. They closed the program with "Bombasto March" by Farrar. While playing the final number of the performance, the Smith-Cotton twirlers appeared on the stage and presented their routine.

The room was decorated using the theme of "Outer Space," with the color scheme of blue and white. Blue and white crepe paper streamers were hung around the room and a rainbow with stars was suspended from balloons. Space ships and rockets made of cardboard were on the platform.

White tapers in crystal holders, blue napkins and silver nut cups and white place cards in the shape of rockets were on the tables.

Favors were blue booklets on which was printed, "Outer Space."

The speakers table had a large bouquet of mock orange and roses.

So, however, girls who served were: Dorothy Lynde, Ann Emig, Mary Brown, Gwen Lee, Shirley Duffer, Shirley Benz, Ann Bowland and Dolores Chick. They were all wearing white sleeveless blouses and blue skirts.

Beulah Sammons and Mary Jo Chick were hat check girls.

Lynnel Blaylock was master of ceremonies and the following program was presented: Invocation, Gene Parrott; toast of welcome, Kirby Clark; senior acceptance, Tommy Harfield; toast to the seniors, Mrs. Harold Visser; toast to the juniors, Richard Taxman; presentation of the key, Dale Lynde; acceptance of the key, J. J. Lyle; "Auld Lang Syne."

The entire musical performance was under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Schrader, head of the school music department.

At the end of the orchestra and band's playing, seniors from the respective groups were recognized by Mrs. Schrader. In there being numerous members in the mixed chorus, the members of the vocal group designated themselves by raising their hands. Mrs. Schrader also expressed her appreciation to all in the listening audience for their attendance and cooperation the past musical season.

The next meeting will be June 7 at the Quisenberry school.

AEC Has No Comment
On Second Advisor
Being Challenged

WASHINGTON 4—The Atomic Energy Commission today had "no comment" on a published report that "a second important adviser to the AEC" has been challenged on security grounds.

Recently, Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, a key scientist in the Atomic energy program from the outset, was challenged by the AEC on security grounds and given a hearing to answer allegations made against him. Results of the hearing have not yet been disclosed.

The commission also had no direct comment to a published report that three commission members and several high-level staff members are planning to leave the AEC.

It was pointed out, however, that the present term of AEC Commissioner Eugene Zuckert expires on June 30, although a commission staff member said Zuckert had given no indication whether he would be interested in a reappointment.

Drought Brings Harm
In Home Structure

KANSAS CITY 3—Two years of drought have resulted in structural damage to perhaps 65 percent of the homes in greater Kansas City an Army engineer structural expert said yesterday.

Karl V. Taylor, chief of the foundation and materials branch, estimated the total repair bill as a result of the damage would add up to between $20,000,000 and $40,000,000.

Taylor, who spoke at a structural conference of the 16th district of the American Society of Civil Engineers, said the gradual lowering of the water table had resulted in shrinkage of the soil and subsequent foundation settling. The average cost of repairs for each affected home, he said, varied from $600 to $3,000.

SHIELD EXPERT HERE

H. M. SHEVNAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Bothwell Hotel, Sedalia, Wednesday and Thursday, only, May 19 and 20, from 9 A.M. to 3 P.M.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a new development in all four methods of repairing foundations. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly no matter the size or location but it will increase the circulation, strengthen the soil and thereby close the opening in ten days on the average, regardless of how big the lifting, straining or any position the body may assume. A nationally known scientific method. No need of drawings, cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge, 7344 No. Ridge Boulevard, Apt. 8B, Chicago 45.

Large incisional hernia or rupture following surgical operation especially solicited.

Break Ground Sunday For New Church

After discussing the plans and procedure for their new sanctuary, members of the Fifth Street Methodist Church will hold ground breaking ceremonies Sunday for the new Wesley Methodist Church at Broadway and Carr.

During the worship service, at 10:30 a.m., Seigel Woodard, chairman of the official board, and Merle Vaughan, chairman of the building committee, will speak, giving the plans and facts concerning the building program. There will be time for questions and discussions.

At this service the pastor, the Rev. Lee F. Soxman, will bring a brief meditation on "Arise, Therefore, and Build". The choir will sing the anthem "The Lord is Mindful of His Own".

Following this service, the congregation will go to the site of the new church building and at 12 noon the ground breaking ceremonies will be held with Mr. Woodard presiding. The program for this time includes: "America the Beautiful" and "Advance, On Church of God, Advance", to the accompaniment of trumpets; invocation by K. P. McCrary, superintendent of the Sunday school; brief statements and introductions by Mr. Woodard and Mr. Vaughan; scripture reading by a young person; "The Church's One Foundation", by the combined choirs; address by Judge Dimmitt Hofmann, long time member of the church and chairman of the board of trustees; reading of a prayer poem written by Miss Hazel Lang, a member of the congregation, "O God, We Break This Ground Today"; ground breaking ritual conducted by the minister; trumpets and benediction with choral response.

On Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. all Vacation Bible School workers will meet at the church for the purpose of making arrangements for the Vacation Bible School which will begin on Monday, May 24, at 9 a.m. Preparation and Parade Day will be on Friday, May 21, at 2 p.m.

All members of the church are invited to take shovels with them for the service and to participate in the ground breaking.

Gar Wood, 3 Others Saved As Boat Sinks

MIAMI, Fla. — The "unsinkable" twin-hulled yacht Venturi lay in her watery grave off Great Isaac Light in the Bahamas today, but Gar Wood, 73-year-old speedboat racer and builder, and eight others were safe.

The 188-foot Venturi broke up in heavy seas while returning to Miami from a round trip to Nassau yesterday. Wood, his secretary, his Negro housekeeper and six crew members were rescued.

Wood, who designed the 120-ton craft for use by the Army Air Force in 1944 and reacquired it from the government five years later, his secretary Jean Berry, 24, and the housekeeper, Jodie Rodriguez, were brought to Miami last night. A Coast Guard helicopter snatched them from a lifeboat wallowing in heavy seas about 63 miles east of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The others — Capt. C. A. MacCallum, B. Staya, C. J. Berger, J. S. Meister, Harry Folsom and M. Vandenberg, all of Miami — were picked up from small boats by the fishing craft, Jerry Mar, near the scene of the accident. Plans were to bring them to Miami today by a Coast Guard patrol boat.

"The Venturi was going 22 to 23 knots in deep water when we ran into a bad storm," Wood said. "The waves were high, 10 feet or more, and we came into it so suddenly we didn't have time to slow down."

A valve opened on the port side and then another one gave on the starboard side and we began taking water. I was forward checking the compass when this extremely big wave hit."

Some of the front streamlining on the bow, sort of an airtight, broke off and I knew we were in trouble."

Wood, running a tanned hand through his snow-white hair, recalled the Venturi was made of wood and was 10 years old.

"I guess maybe she'd become brittle," he said. "The waves kept pounding the port side and she began to settle down in the water. There are 20 bulkheads in each of the twin hulls and they held a long time."

Capt. MacCallum notified the Coast Guard as soon as we began settling. We stayed aboard about three hours. When the Venturi was about five-feet above water — the deck normally is 22 feet above the waterline — we decided to abandon and got into the lifeboat."

Three Coast Guard planes, answering MacCallum's radio message, rushed to the area. A patrol boat went out from Fort Lauderdale and the cutter Ariadne sped out of Miami. A Coast Guard patrol plane hovered over the area until the helicopter arrived to continue rescue operations. The Jerry Mar moved in to pick up the crew members.

New Henry County Jail Is Dedicated

CLINTON — Dedication of a new county jail here Thursday to replace one known as "The Sieve" because of many escapes, led Judge Dewey P. Hatch to grant amnesty to a county prisoner.

Observing that the crumbling condition of the old jail hardly made breaking from it a crime, the judge ordered the release of Elmer C. Ash, 48, of Uriah.

Ash, who crawled through a hole in the back wall of the 98-year-old structure April 3, was the last man to escape from the old jail. The hole had been dug by four prisoners who escaped earlier on the same date. Ash was sentenced April 24 to 30 days in the county jail.

The new $76,000 jail was dedicated at ceremonies Thursday afternoon.

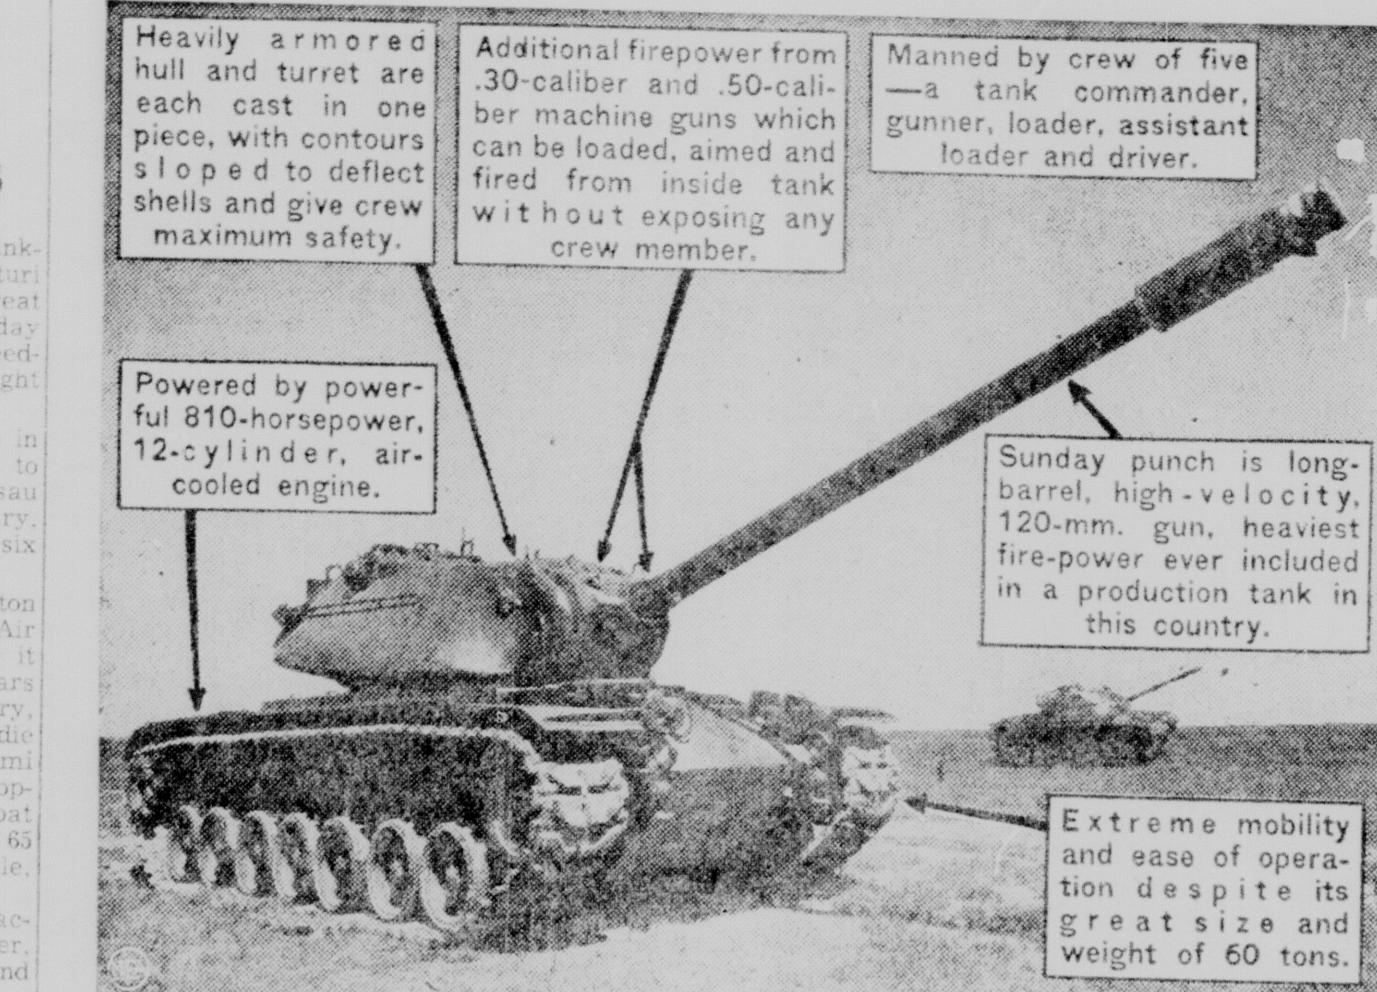

The 2-story building, constructed of bricks and concrete blocks, was just completed this week after nearly two years of work. It has facilities for thirty-two prisoners, including twenty-four in the main cell blocks, with separate cells for women and juveniles and a hospital cell for violent prisoners.

Mac-Army Digest . . .

WASHINGTON — Here is an at-a-glance summary of the Senate Investigations subcommittee's public inquiry into the row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and high Pentagon officials:

The basic charges—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams have accused McCarthy and two subcommittees—Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, of using improper pressures to win favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine. Schine was a subcommittee consultant before being drafted last November.

McCarthy's side in turn has accused Stevens and Adams of attempting to get Schine as a "hostage" in attempting to get McCarthy to halt or divert an investigation of alleged subversives in the Army, particularly at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

They named also H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense.

Pertinent past testimony—Stevens has denied trying to halt McCarthy's probe but said the senator's methods subjected the graduates of that year to

This year's officers were then elected as follows: Richard D. Conn, president; Paul A. Miller, vice president; Mrs. Jack W. Stephens, recording secretary; Mrs. J. W. Proctor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harold Neiderwimmer, treasurer.

It was voted to hold next year's meeting the third Saturday in May.

The president appointed Mrs. Loy Allee, Miss Alice Hayes and Lloyd Carter as the committee in charge of the entertainment for 1955 to serve with the executive officers.

During the social hour refreshments were served from two beautifully appointed tea tables with Bill Bookout, Lloyd Carter, Paul Miller and Loy Allee serving.

McCarthy, who has testified only briefly on a side issue, has said during his questioning that the answer to charges of pressure in Schine's behalf is that Schine is still a private. He said the Army delayed acting against suspected subversives at Ft. Monmouth in the face of FBI warnings about some employees.

Highlights yesterday—Adams said, speaking of alleged pressure in Schine's behalf, that he was "pounded and pounded." He conceded he had tried to placate and mollify McCarthy and Cohn, but said, "That isn't appeasement; that's living with people."

He said he did his best to cooperate with the McCarthy investigation and did not seek to bait him although unhappy at the type of hearings. "I never made any overt acts which were in any way improper," he said.

He said it is not true that he offered the subcommittee "bigger bait" in the form of offering data on homosexuals in the Navy and Air Force. "I never made such an offer," he said. "I wouldn't

Tipton High Alumni Start Annual Reunion

TIPTON — The alumni of Tipton High School (1890-1954) held their first meeting, Saturday May 3 at 8 p.m. at the high school auditorium for the purpose of organizing.

There were 90 graduates and approximately 60 husbands and wives present.

William Anthony gave the invocation after which a group of high school students, under the direction of John Gregory, music director, gave several musical selections.

Sup. Ira E. Grubbs opened the meeting and introduced Mrs. Loy Allee, chairman in charge of this year's meeting, who gave a brief resume of how the plans for this organization came about.

Roscoe Collier was elected temporary chairman with Mrs. Jack W. Stephens as temporary secretary.

As each year from 1890 to 1954 was called by Mr. Collier, the graduates of that year stood.

This year's officers were then elected as follows: Richard D. Conn, president; Paul A. Miller, vice president; Mrs. Jack W. Stephens, recording secretary; Mrs. J. W. Proctor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harold Neiderwimmer, treasurer.

AFL Leaders Called To Discuss Proposal For Settling Disputes

CHICAGO — Top union leaders of the American Federation of Labor were summoned today to discuss a proposal for settling jurisdictional disputes among AFL member unions.

The AFL Executive Council at a meeting yesterday drafted the proposal, which is basically the same in principle as one approved by the federation's policy-making group at a meeting last winter.

However, the council decided to review and revise the draft.

As now drafted, the proposal would set up a system of meetings between warring unions, conciliation by an AFL representative and a final step or arbitration. It would apply only to unions which accept it in advance.

Drivers Conduct Joust On Birmingham Road

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Dumb-founded motorists watched the driver of a black car and a taxi joust with might and main on Lake Shore Drive yesterday.

They rammed their vehicles together, he'd a doin', wheeled, and banged together again.

A heavy truck broke up the action briefly when it drove through.

Finally the black car and the cab pulled backward a space and raced toward one another at top speed. The cab swerved at the last instant and fled.

Police are trying to find out what the duel was about.

White House Can't Control Secretary of Army Stevens

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—How closely Senator Dirksen of Illinois has been working with the White House in trying to end the McCarthy hearings was indicated by some backstage by-play Monday.

With the committee having already rejected Dirksen's plan to end the hearings after McCarthy testified, the soft-spoken persuasive negotiator from Illinois went into a noon-hour huddle with White House aides.

During that huddle they came up with the second Dirksen compromise — namely, to end public testimony after hearing McCarthy, but continue secret cross-examination by Counsel Ray Jenkins.

What worried Chairman Mundt about this second compromise was that the Army might reject it. So it was arranged that the committee not vote until next day, thereby giving the White House time to call off the secretary of the Army. Though Stevens has undergone two weeks of grueling cross-examination, he has insisted that the hearings must go on until each scrap of evidence is heard.

Last month he was bawled out by Ike for not standing up to McCarthy, and now he's got his back up so much that Ike can't reverse his own earlier advice. However, the White House wanted to make a try at pacifying him on Monday night.

But Stevens did not wait for Monday night. He told the senators immediately after lunch that he was dead opposed to the second Dirksen compromise.

"I hope you will make no precipitous judgment at this time," Chairman Mundt interrupted. "Think it over during the evening."

However, Stevens would not be sidetracked.

"This committee overtook this series of hearings," he said. "You made the rules. One of the rules was that the hearings would be public. You later said they would be televised. I see no reason to change the rules at this time."

Note—What McCarthy and his friends on the committee want to get away from is testimony by Army Counsel John Adams and legal Adviser Struve Hensel, both smart attorneys. Also, they don't want the telephone recordings between McCarthy's staff and the Army to be made public. These are loaded with dynamite.

Defeat of Couderd Rider Is Wise Move by Congress

By Bruce Biossat

Congress acted wisely in defeating overwhelmingly the so-called Couderd rider which would have required congressional approval before U.S. troops could be sent to Indo-China or anywhere else.

Naturally the American public feels deep concern over the prospect of involvement in the Indo-China war. But President Eisenhower has given repeated assurances that he would not get into war without action by Congress, just as he has promised our allies we would not act without consulting them.

If the President has said he would not act without congressional endorsement, then one might ask: What is wrong with casting this restriction into formal law?

In this specific instance, there is a technical reason and a fundamental reason why it should not be done.

The technical reason is that the proposal was offered as a rider, a mere appendage, to an appropriation bill. As such, it did not get the full-fledged treatment warranted for a matter of prime constitutional importance—which this is.

Fundamentally, the constitutional issue raised by the Couderd plan is whether the President is to retain his historic flexibility in foreign affairs and military matters.

To the his hands when instant retaliation might be required for the nation's defense could be perilous in any H-bomb age. If the Russians dropped a big bomb on New York, no sane lawmaker or citizen would want the President to wait for congressional action before dispatching American planes to the enemy's heart. The delay could be fatal.

Furthermore, in the conduct of foreign affairs, the President and his diplomats need not only flexibility of maneuver but the ability to sow doubt and uncertainty among potential enemies. Representative Vorys of Ohio expressed the idea perfectly:

"Telexing your punches is bad enough. But telegraphing your enemies you are not going to punch is even worse."

There is no earthly reason, in other words, why we should tell the Russians what we are NOT going to do. So long as they think we might act, that prospect can serve as a deterrent. It is a powerful weapon in the hands of our diplomats.

The 214 to 37 vote by which the House rejected the Couderd proposal suggests that the wisdom of the president's constitutional position was brought home forcefully to the lawmakers.

For a Freer Partnership

The Japanese Diet has now completed ratification of the mutual defense treaty with the United States. That means we may now proceed with the limited rearmament of the Japanese islands.

The action constitutes an answer to Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai, who recently called on the West to clear out of Asia and give up remilitarizing Japan. Most Japanese understand only too well what would happen to them if they were left defenseless in the shadow of Communist China.

It should be noted, however, that the approval given the treaty by the Upper House in Japan was something short of overwhelming. A great many members abstained.

Observers are convinced the reason for this hesitancy is resistance to the continued dependency of Japan on the United States, both economically and militarily. Many Japanese have a feeling they are under compulsion.

We can perhaps minimize some of this feeling by implementing the treaty with extreme diplomatic skill. But probably the best thing we could do is to assist the Japanese to find the path to greater independence economically.

Only when they have that will they be likely to view any treaty arrangements with America as the product of international partners>equals freely entered into as a matter of choice.

The Readers' Write

MISS MARY HELEN MAYER, (240 SO. VERMONT) — I see in May 10, 1954 Sedalia Democrat a plan for attempting to solve the city's traffic problem, mainly by instituting one way traffic on a number of the downtown streets. It seems to me that this one way traffic plan is too drastic to adopt hastily. It seems to me that the experimental methods used by modern scientists could be tried first.

For example wouldn't it be a good idea to have a number of parking meter hoods printed plainly—TRAFFIC RESEARCH—NO PARKING HERE TODAY—or ONLY LIVE PARKING HERE TODAY—or 10 minute parking here today (with an opening in the hood for inserting the coin) or LOADING and UNLOADING passengers here today.

Then try out various plans.

Try a plan mentioned in a recent Reader's Digest article as used in Paris, France on certain narrow streets—on alternate days of the week parking is allowed on alternate sides of the street. By observation, the best direction for the flow of traffic might be ascertained from this partial one way traffic scheme.

Or have live parking only on one side of the street on alternate days by putting the hoods over all the meters on one side on alternate days.

Or hood the meters on either side of the entrance to all alleys on the main streets for loading and unloading zones.

According to this plan there would not be expensive signs to be erected and there would not be a great amount of confusion as there is to be when one way street plans are inaugurated.

If Sedalia were to try out this plan for scientific experimentation, who knows but that this university-less (even college-less) town might achieve fame for research . . .

Yours for INTELLIGENT planning. (fore-thought)

Two Sides Given to Problem Of Hubby Too Tired to Help

By Ruth Millett

Is there any truth to the charge made by a male reader who says this is how the average wife begins to think once the children have come along:

"Why doesn't he help more at home or with the children? He says he is too tired at the end of the day. Ridiculous!"

"All he has done all day is make a few dozen important business decisions, worried about getting new business and meeting a payroll. That is all very well, but I have been washing and making beds and tending to the children, and that is physical labor and much more tiring."

From here on until middle age, he wonders if he shouldn't get a job as a stevedore, ditch digger or furniture mover so he can come home at night dog tired from physical labor to match her weariness.

That may be how it looks to a man.

The Wife's Side

But here is how it looks to his wife: Sure, he has been working hard all day, but so has she. So why should he take to his easy chair, ignoring the work still to be done and the demands of the children?

After all, his wife gets dinner, washes the dishes, oversees the children's baths, gets them to bed and then straightens up the living room before getting to sit down and take a breather. It seems to the wife that there's something a little unfair in that setup.

As for help with the children, when a wife asks her husband to help with the children's needs she is doing him a favor. The father who is protected from his children night after night because "Daddy is too tired" wakes up one day to the realization that he has been cut off from their love and their confidences.

They always turn to Mama, because nobody ever tells them Mama is too tired to be bothered.

Maybe women don't always understand the problems connected with earning a living for a family. But men don't always understand how difficult it is to be the Mama in a family where the Papa is too weary from making business decisions to be of any help around the house.

H-Bomb Snafu

By Peter Edson

WASHINGTON—Biggest snafu in connection with the March hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific has just leaked out of Air Force headquarters.

The story concerns a transport plane loaded with high Air Force brass who were supposed to fly from the air the Big H-bomb test at Bikini atoll. The plane took off with its precious cargo of VIP's and flew away from the ground-zero point over which the bomb was to be exploded, so as to be a safe distance away when it was triggered. All planes in the air at the time were under radio orders from a traffic control plane. This traffic control plane was supposed to tell the transport when it would be safe to turn around and fly so that the VIP's—who had been brought all the way from Washington to see this sight—could have a good look.

In the general excitement of controlling the flight of a number of other planes with scientific instruments on board, the traffic control crew forgot all about this plane load of brass. It was allowed to fly on and on, in the general direction of Tokyo. The bomb went off.

Those on board missed the whole show. When it was all over, somebody remembered about the lost VIP's and radioed them to come on back to base.

Pentagon won't give out the full passenger list, but among those known to have been on board were Gen. Otto P. Weyland, commanding general of the Tactical Air Command, and Mr. Hyde Gillette, deputy assistant secretary of the Air Force for budget and program management.

The World Today--

French Are Wasting Strength

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (P)—The French are like Samson cutting his own hair.

Although they don't have as much strength as they'd like to believe, they still throw it away by thinking as individuals instead of as a nation.

French troops are heroic as ever, as they showed in their hopeless stand against the Communists in Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China.

But at home the politicians and the people are so confused and divided they have had 19 cabinets since their liberation in 1945.

No longer the great empire of the past, they try to act like one. Yet they could not have held Indo-China this long without American aid.

In 1949 their Maginot Line was overwhelmed by the Germans with a new kind of war, a blitz of planes and tanks, for which the French were unready.

Yesterday Premier Lanier told the Assembly that now, 14 years later, French at Dien Bien Phu were organized to resist one type of army but were unable "to meet the attack of the Russians."

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault is meeting in Geneva now with the Americans, British, Russians and Chinese to work out a peace in Indo-China. The Communists know the allies are divided. This doesn't strengthen Biafra's hand.

It wasn't strengthened last night when the French Assembly gave its vote of confidence by a margin of only two votes, which is hardly much confidence.

It may not be long before Lanier's Cabinet falls and the French will produce another, possibly one willing to give up altogether on Indo-China and EDC too.

Blames Draft Boards For Goldbricking

HONOLULU (P)—Dr. Forrest J. Pinkerton of Honolulu says lax physical examinations by draft boards are costing U.S. taxpayers "untold millions of dollars" and are "making a nation of dishonest, grafting veterans."

Pinkerton, a consultant of the U.S. armed services, addressed the 98th annual meeting of the Hawaiian Medical Assn. last night.

He said his criticisms and recommendations had been reported to the surgeon general. They were based on a government-sponsored survey last year of U.S. military medical installations in South Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Okinawa and Formosa.

Pinkerton said induction boards and examiners operating under "the same old archaic style of a century ago" have cost "unestimated millions of tax dollars in phony compensation pensions" for disabilities predating military service.

"Probably the greatest evil is the slapdash technique of examining the ordinary inductee by asking him, 'Can you see? Can you hear?' and then recording the results as normal," he said.

"The first and greatest felony is committed by those who conduct the induction physical examination when they fail to accurately record defects on the induction record," he said. "A chain reaction of errors follows."

Pinkerton cited the case of a Honolulu veteran, a prewar patient of his, who is collecting $87.50 a month for a hearing defect—"although he hears better today after active military service than is indicated in any one of several audiograms taken throughout his childhood and young manhood."

He said the case was "only too typical of 'several hundred' goldbricking and malingerer cases" he examined during his tour.

Pilot Grove High School Has Its Banquet, Prom

The junior-senior banquet and prom, the annual social highlight of the Pilot Grove High School, was held at the gymnasium Tuesday evening, May 11.

The theme of the affair, "Moonlight and Roses," was carried out in the program decorations, favors, place cards and menu.

The hall was decorated as a spring garden, even to the traditional vine and flower covered garden wall, with rose covered archways leading into the garden, where individual tables were placed, a white picket fence, with garlands of roses stretched across the stage. Blue paper, studded with stars, formed a canopy for the setting, with a gay yellow moon completing the decorations.

The following program was given: "Remembrance in Roses," Robert Kraus; "Orchids," to the Juniors; Ronald Harper; "Scenes in Smiles and Moonbeams," Marvin Schuster; "Enchanting Evening," Sept. Keith Davis; and "Shadows in the Moonlight," Wanda Bergman.

The menu was prepared by the mothers of the Junior Class.

The serving of the banquet was in charge of Mrs. Martha Rapp, home economics teacher, and the waitresses were members of the freshmen and sophomore classes as follows: Lanore Schlotzhauser, Betty Boggs, George Deering, Marie Schupp, Joan Spaedy, Ronald Luttrell, Charles Wessling, Norbert Wesseling, Freddy Lammers and Paul Schuster.

Guests were members of the senior class, members of the board of education and their wives, the faculty of the high school, public school and their husbands.

Members of the faculty are as follows: Keith Davis, Miss Lida Harris, Byron Becker, Miss Catherine Benson, Mrs. Rapp, Miss Martha Story, Raymond Odor, Mrs. Bertha Hamilton, Mrs. Louis Hunt, Joe Twenter, Miss Dorothy Downing, Mrs. Dale Shipman and Mrs. Norman Johnson.

Members of the junior class are: Bobby Alley, Tommy Anderson, Norberta Blank, Charles Bock, Wanda Bergman, James Lammer, Louise Miller, Alice Day, Jim Eckerle, Davis Fry, Charles Green, Velma Hicks, Arthur Knittle, Bobby Kraus, Curtis Meyer, Dorothy Roth, Frank Roth, Joe Schlotzhauser, Marvin Schuster, Jerome Wirths, Elaine Selbach, Manne Stoecklein, Dorothy Templeton, Lew Twenter, Arthur Twenter Jr., and Bobby Zeller.

Present from the senior class were: Maurice Bock, Oscar Brownfield, Carolyn Cole, Joan Cooper, Ray Embry, Pat Felten, Ronald Harper, Eugene Heim, John Heinrich, Clifford Hirst, Bobby Kramel, Rita Kraus, Bobby Lorenz, Mary Luttrell, T. J. Melior, Joan Overstreet, Eva Quint, Mary Rin Scott, Robert Vollmer, Alice Wessling, Edward Wesseling, Vernon Zeller, Bonnie Knedgen and Jerry Spaedy.

$7 a Day As An Extra Started Frederick March Toward Fame

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (P)—In 1920 a young bank teller named Frederick Bickel got paid $7 for a single day's work as an extra in a silent movie.

Overwhelmed at this vista of sudden wealth, Bickel decided he was tired of counting other people's money and went adventuring into the world of the theater.

Some of the other tellers naturally thought Bickel was crazy to give up a nice warm job in a cage for an actor's hungry freedom. But in this case the banking world lost a handsome teller—and gained an even more handsome depositor.

By 1937 Frederick Bickel was known by sight to more people than J. P. Morgan—under the name of Fredric March. A U.S. Treasury Department report listed him as having the nation's fifth largest earned income—$484,687.

Today March, a veteran of some 50 plays and 38 motion pictures, is still handsome and youthful looking. But he and his equally talented wife, Florence Eldridge, have taken a long hard look at the years behind, and the years ahead—and decided the rest of the journey should be more relaxing.

They've had plenty of fun along the way and brought up two children, but they worked hard for both money and fame.

"We have no long term goals left now," March said. "We're tapering off. And my wife agrees it's about time."

"What am I afraid of?" Only the world situation. I think our best hope at the moment is the United Nations, and I'd like to see it work."

Many movie fans noted the resemblance between Fredric March and John Barrymore. But March, if less gifted than Barrymore—and this could be argued—is certainly more idealistic—and more intelligent, too, if it is a sign of intelligence to plan a well-rounded life toward a happy ending.

"I don't want to be a director or a producer. I still want to stay an actor. But we've put in some busy years, and now spending more time with our family and friends is just more and more important to us."

"We're not even reading new plays. We're not looking for any."

"Right now I guess I'm theatherous. Either a Broadway play is a flop—and who enjoys a failure, even if it was worth a try—or else it is a hit and runs for two or three years. That means you are away from your family and friends too much. I don't see it any more. It's fine for those who do, as I did for many years. But not now."

"I like movie work. The films have grown up. They are more adult in their themes, the people who make them are more efficient."

French, U. S. Navarre Plan Is Abandoned

WASHINGTON (P)—The Navarre plan, upon which the American and French governments once based their hopes for winning the IndoChina war, now has been quietly written off by authorities here.

French officials also indicate they feel the plan has little pertinence since Dien Bien Phu. That French Union fortress fell after the Communist Vietminh came out in the open to fight.

One of the Navarre plan's main assumptions had been that the Vietminh would continue guerrilla tactics.

"Gov. Phil M. Donnelly has not only been opposed to sound state support for the public schools but has thwarted and handicapped the work of the duly elected representatives of the people x x x in their efforts to provide for public schools," said Cheek.

Cheek said Missouri ranks 40th in the present of her citizens' income she spends on current education of her children. Missouri's teachers get $550 a year less than the national average and that more than one out of every four teachers graduated from the state's colleges accept teaching positions in other states.

Developed about a year ago by Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander in IndoChina, the plan called for training of scores of native battalions. Use of these battalions for police duties would free French, North African and Foreign Legion troops for combat duty.

It was hoped this would achieve control over the Reds within about two years.

By promising an eventual end to the IndoChina war, the plan formed a basis for obtaining additional American help in military equipment to finish the job.

It has been swept away chiefly by the Communists' action in recent weeks making the IndoChina war into what is now regarded here as a new kind of conflict.

The Vietminh demonstrated at Dien Bien Phu that they have the training, equipment and will to fight standard military operations on a relatively large scale.

U.S. officials familiar with the IndoChina fighting say that Chinese Communist military supplies and training — reinforced by Soviet ideas, technical assistance and equipment — changed the nature of the fight. In addition they are concerned over certain reported weaknesses of the French and native side.

As a result, various high officials here are now convinced that the choice before President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles comes down to this:

"United States intervention in the fighting could rebalance the IndoChina forces and give new hope for anti-Communist success. An American decision not to intervene very likely would mean that the Reds would overrun Viet Nam and probably the other Associated States of Laos and Cambodia, very rapidly."

Intensive negotiations have been going on between Washington and Paris as to what may be done.

A similar proposal has been defeated twice previously this year.

Yesterday's Games... Roberts Just Homer Pitch From Perfect

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

Will a present-day pitcher ever pitch a perfect game?

This fine old baseball debate was revived again today after the latest feat of near-perfection by Robin Roberts, the right-handed half of the Philadelphia Phillies' "Gold Dust Twins."

Roberts gave up a home run to Bobby Adams, leading off for Cincinnati last night, and then retired 27 men without another one reaching first base. He won 8-1.

Except that it was a home run instead of a single, Roberts' game was virtually a carbon copy of one tossed a year ago this week by his buddy, lefty Curt Simmons. Simmons mowed down the Milwaukee Braves in order through nine complete innings after Billy Bruton had singled as the leadoff batter.

Neither Roberts nor Simmons was born when Charles Robertson of the Chicago White Sox beat Detroit in April 1922 in the majors' last perfect game—no runs, no hits, no base runners. Only three others ever have been recorded in the modern majors, none of them in the National League.

Two weeks ago Roberts pitched his first one-hitter, against Milwaukee. That time he walked three men.

The Phillies maintained their half game, first-place lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who beat St. Louis 10-3. Milwaukee defeated Pittsburgh 4-2, and New York whipped Cincinnati 6-3 in other National League action.

In the American League, New York edged Detroit 5-3 in 10 innings on Yogi Berra's two-run homer; Boston beat Baltimore 9-1; Philadelphia defeated Chicago 3-2; and Cleveland shaded Washington 8-7 in 11 innings.

If the Cardinals could figure out a way to miss Brooklyn on their Eastern swing they undoubtedly would be much happier. They lost in Ebbets Field for the 12th straight time in two seasons, this time to southpaw Johnny Podres, who won his fourth in a row. A six-run uprising against Gerry Staley in the sixth inning finished off the Cards' chances.

Chef Nichols, who was supposed to take up the slack left in the Milwaukee pitching staff upon the departure of Johnny Antonelli and Max Surkont, won his second game after three losses in beating Pittsburgh. He gave up eight hits, all singles.

Milwaukee moved ahead of both Cincinnati and St. Louis into the first division.

The Giants laid down a home-run barrage that left the Cubs staggering in the Polo Grounds. They hit five, including two by Monte Irvin.

Home runs by New York's American League representatives ruined the evening for baseball's largest crowd of the season—50,915 at Briggs Stadium in Detroit. Trailing 3-1, the Yankees caught up in the eighth on Irv Noren's two-run homer and then won in the 10th when Berra parked one into the upper right-field seats with one aboard.

Inspired by a practice home run by Ted Williams, the Red Sox broke out of their hitting slump and slammed Baltimore pitching for 11 safeties. They bunched five of them, along with two Oriole errors, for six runs in the third. Williams, although dressed, was not in the playing lineup.

The Athletics used a two-run rally in the ninth to snap a six-game losing streak at the expense of the White Sox. A single by Gus Zernial and a double by Pete Suder drove in the winning runs off Virgil Trucks.

The Indians beat Washington although they went into the last of the ninth inning trailing by six runs. Al Rosen touched off the late spree with a home run and doubled in the winning run in the 11th.

Air Base Baseball, Softball Teams Play Sunday at 'Open House'

The Sedalia Air Force Base baseball team and softball team will open home play Sunday during Armed Forces Day with the baseball crew hosting Lexington and the softball players meeting the Knights of Columbus of Sedalia.

So if you get tired of inspecting the many types of airplanes that will be on display, you may see either of these games at the south end of the base. There will be no admission charges.

Tonight the baseball team travels to Holden for a game with the Holden team, and Saturday it goes to Fayette for a game with Central College.

My Greatest Shot

Horton Smith really started his golfing career in Sedalia, where he was the pro at the Country Club a number of years ago.)

A hole-in-one I made in competition and which, in a sense started on the big time, stands out in my mind.

It was during the final round of the Oklahoma Open of 1928.

On the 130-yard second hole, I used a 7 iron, which we then called a mashie niblick. The ball flew right into the hole.

I parred the final hole to wind up a shot behind Lawson Little and Gene Sarazen.

Bannister's Non-TV Showing Puzzles Many On AAU Rules

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Bannister, the four-minute miler, must feel like his famous countrywoman Alice did when she tumbled down the rabbit hole.

And Roger isn't the only one. There must be literally millions of red-blooded Americans and Britons, both, who are wondering what happened, and why, after the latest miracle runner landed here a couple of mornings ago thinking he was going to appear on a number of television programs.

The average, lightly formed impression probably is that Bannister was warned off the project, which was purely a patriotic one on his part, because it might endanger his amateur standing and render him ineligible to run in the 1966 Olympics at Melbourne.

It is true that our own amateur officials, being extremely conscientious about such matters, did slip the word to their opposite numbers in Britain that it was against the rules for Bannister to appear on a program which was commercially sponsored—with certain reservations. It also is true that our British cousins took the hint and advised their flying object to watch himself. But that's about as far as the mixed-up affair of Bannister makes sense.

The plain, undisputed fact is that at least one of them a winner in the last Olympics—have shown their smiling faces on various commercial programs in recent years.

Why, then, did everyone connected with the "secret" trip swoon dead away upon receipt of word from the AAU that this country, unlike Britain, had commercial television? It is a real puzzler, but an executive of the company which was to have transmitted the Bannister show thinks he has a clue.

"Since Bannister ran 3:59.4 miles," he said, "he has been extended official invitations to compete in at least three track meets in this country. He turned them all down, saying that his medical studies made it impossible. Then all of a sudden he turns up here, not to run, but to appear on a TV show. I don't imagine that pleased our officials very much."

The man's dark suspicions possibly are not justified, but at least one has yet come up with a better explanation. In justice to the AAU, that body insists it merely was being helpful.

Musial Has No Idea of Becoming Home Run Crazy

BROOKLYN (AP)—Stan Musial, rated by many as baseball's greatest current star, declared today he has no intention of becoming "home run crazy" despite his record breakingfeat of slugging five homers in a doubleheader.

Musial agreed it would be nice if he could win the home run title, the only slugging honor to elude the St. Louis Cardinal outfielder in 11 years of major league stardom. But Stan the Man has no special designs in that direction even though he currently is tied for the major league lead with Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati and Chicago's Hank Sauer. He has hit 10 out of the park.

"I can't understand it," Musial said, "ever since I hit those five home runs against the Giants on May 2 people have been expecting me to challenge Ralph Kiner and Eddie Mathews for the home run title. I'm not in their class when it comes to home runs. They're real sluggers. I'm just a singles hitter."

Musial said only once did he specifically set his sights on the home run crown and it almost ruined him as a batter. That was in 1949.

"I was taught a lesson then that I'll never forget," he said. "I had hit 39 homers in 1948, only one behind Kiner and Johnny Mize, and I began to fancy myself as a home run hitter. So the next year I thought I'd take a crack at the home run title. I began to swing for the fences. That proved to be a colossal mistake. I was so bent on trying to hit homers I forgot how to hit singles."

"As a result, I was hitting under .300 as late as June. I finally saw the light and went back to my old style of hitting."

Sooner Head Blames Probe On Jealousy

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—The president of the University of Oklahoma Board of Regents suggested today sour grapes may have prompted the NCAA investigation of Sooner athletic practices.

The probe, disclosed yesterday by the regents, was launched officially a month ago in a letter from the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. committee on infractions.

"I still don't know the real purpose of the NCAA's request," said George Short, head of the regents. "Maybe we've been winning too many football games or perhaps too many of our athletes have been completing their college educations and earning their degree to suit other schools."

Oklahoma, 7-0 upset victor over top-ranked Maryland in the orange bowl New Year's Day, is the only school in the nation to finish for six straight years in the top ten in the Associated Press football poll.

Short said more than one institution might have instigated the investigation into the methods of landing prep school athletes stars, athletic subsidies, outside contributions and how they are administered.

Both Dr. George L. Cross, university president, and Bud Wilkinson, head football coach and athletic director, asserted Oklahoma was complying with NCAA regulations.

The committee was particularly interested in the Oklahoma City Touchdown Club, composed of wealthy individuals who contribute athletic funds which the university administers.

The committee was particularly interested in the Oklahoma City Touchdown Club, composed of wealthy individuals who contribute athletic funds which the university administers.

Short said the letter, signed by Walter Byers of Kansas City, N.C.A.A. executive secretary, left the implication that "wealthy highbinders" are shadowing coaches on visits to prospective athletes, signing checks as fast as they can write.

"If that's the case," he added, "I believe that we'll pretty well scotch the rumor with the report we plan to submit to the NCAA. We'll not only answer all their questions, but we'll document the material as thoroughly as we can."

Podres went the distance for the Dodgers, permitting 10 hits to gain his fourth win of the season without a defeat.

Brooklyn collected 12 hits including a single, double and triple by Jackie Robinson who drove in three runs. Duke Snider scored three times and batted in two with a pair of singles and a walk.

The Dodgers had a 2-1 lead when they broke up the ball game in the sixth. Carl Furillo, with one out, singled and scored on base hits by Billy Cox and Rube Walker. Staley then retired Podres for the second out but walked two men to force in a run.

Snider singled home two runs to drive Staley to the showers and Robinson greeted Wright with a triple to score the last two.

Podres held the Cardinals scoreless until the sixth when Stan Musial doubled and scored on the first of three straight singles by Rip Repulski.

The Cardinals last two runs came in the eighth when Musial singled, Tom Alston tripled and Repulski singled.

Fans Expect Records In West Coast Relays

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—What about a 7-foot high jump? A 200-foot discus throw?

Those questions have been going the rounds this week preceding the 28th annual West Coast Relays here tomorrow.

Speculation began in earnest last week when England's Roger Bannister ran a 3:59.4 mile and South Africa's Harry O'Brien made a 60-foot 5 1/4 inch shot put.

The fact 21 world records have been set or equaled here in the relays and the conclusion of some sports writers that "this is the year for track" have heightened speculation.

O'Brien says he is going to try for 62 feet tomorrow.

It was just a year ago that the husky Irishman gave the relays a 19th world mark with a pot of 59 feet 24 inches.

A 200-foot discus throw conceivably could come from O'Brien's teammate on the Los Angeles Athletic Club, Fortune Gordien, Gordon, who holds the world mark of 60 1/2 feet.

The high jumper the crowd will be watching is Ernie Shelton of USC. Shelton won the relays title in 1953 with a leap of 6 feet 7 1/2 inches and has a best of 6 feet 10 1/2 inches. He is reported primed for 7-feet.

Frenchman Rover Takes Crack at Tiger Jones

NEW YORK (AP)—Jacques Rover, another French middleweight who has heard about the Yankee TV dollar, steps into a Madison Square Garden feature as a sub-bout to oppose Ralph (Tiger) Jones, the third-ranked Yonkers, N.Y., 160-pounder.

Rover is brand new in New York, although he fought twice, split, even in two out of town starts since he arrived on these shores. His most important victory was a technical knockout over highly-regarded Tony Anthony at Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 25. Then he lost to one Willie Pastrano in New Orleans.

The 10-round match will be carried on network radio (ABC) and television (NBC) starting at 8 p.m. (EST) with Jones a top-heavy favorite to win and keep his next date, May 24 at St. Nicholas Arena against Pedro Gonzales.

Ralph Edwards Is Sued For Half of Proceeds From Television Show

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Ralph Edwards, producer-emcee of the TV show "This Is Your Life," has been sued for half of the $12 million dollars estimated past and future profits from the program.

Mel Vickland alleged in a complaint filed yesterday in Superior Court that he thought of the idea for the show while hospitalized with polio in 1946. He said Edwards, a close friend for 10 years, promised to share the proceeds with him.

He said Edwards bought him a $1,950 automobile and until Oct. 1, 1952, paid him between $75 and $160 a week. On that date, he said, Edwards informed him he had no interest in the show and that Edwards was the owner.

In her 1950 will filed for probate yesterday, she bequeathed her estate to a cousin, Dr. Alfred F. Scheff, and a ring to a friend, Lyman Brown, both of New York.

One-Time Opera Star Leaves Small Estate

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Fritz Scheff, who once made as much as $4,000 a week during her operatic and light opera career, left an estate of less than $1,000.

Miss Scheff died last April 9 at the age of 74. The Viennese-born actress and singer was the toast of two continents 40 years ago. She often traveled by private rail road car and took over an entire floor when staying at hotels.

Costello Now Faces Fine And Sentence

NEW YORK (P)—Gambler Frank Costello, convicted of federal income tax evasion, faces a possible maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Costello appeared on the verge of tears last night when the jury foreman intoned "Guilty." He had been out of jail less than seven months.

The 63-year-old defendant, who allegedly headed a national underworld syndicate for years, paled and buried his face in his hands. Trembling, he lit a cigarette.

During the wait for the verdict he had put on a show of cheerfulness, bantering with newsmen and friends about baseball.

Costello was released last Oct. 29 from the Federal Correctional Institution at Milan, Mich., after serving 14 months of an 18-month sentence for contempt of the Kefauver crime investigating committee when he refused to answer several key questions and twice stalked out of hearings.

The Italian-born Costello—whose gravel voice grated the ears of millions during the televised Kefauver hearings here in 1951—also faced deportation proceedings.

The federal jury of seven men and five women, which deliberated eight hours, found Costello guilty on three counts of income tax evasion. The figure involved was $39,015.

Judge John F. X. McGahey set Monday for sentencing and raised bail from $5,000 to $25,000. Costello had been free in bail throughout the case.

Defense Council Leo C. Fennelly announced he would appeal.

The jury acquitted Costello on one count of the four-count indictment—an alleged tax evasion of $13,224 in 1946—which cut the total from $52,239 to $39,015.

At the start of the six-week trial the government charged he evaded at least $73,437 in income taxes from 1946 through 1949, but when the prosecution's case was completed the amount had been reduced to the $52,239.

Costello did not take the witness stand in his own defense.

In the trial the government, which spent years in preparing its case, leaned heavily on testimony that Costello and his wife lived on a scale beyond what would be indicated by his reported income. It contended that for the four years contained in the indictment Costello had an income of at least $317,000 but reported only $158,000 in his tax returns.

A major defense contention was that many of Costello's expenditures in 1946 through 1949 were from assets accumulated during prior years.

Israel Condemnations Mount In Wake of New Shootings, Boycott

JERUSALEM, Jordan Section (P)—Condemnations of Israel by the Jordan-Israeli armistice commission mounted today in the wake of new border incidents and a continued Israeli boycott of the commission.

The two Jordan members and the U.N. truce chairman, U.S. Navy Cmdr. Elmo Hutchison, held yesterday that Israel violated the armistice line twice last Monday. Two condemnations of Israel were voted Wednesday and two others Tuesday.

The incidents Monday involved shootings by Israeli patrols, according to Yousef Hajjal, the senior Jordan delegate to the commission. He said a patrol fired across the demarcation line at Khirbet Nasha, and wounded two Arab farmers. Later in the day an Israeli platoon reportedly shot at three women working in the Jordan village of Palama, wounding two of them.

Gen. Sebree Replaces McGarr In 7th Division

SEOUL (P)—Maj. Gen. Edmund B. Sebree today was named commander of the U.S. 7th Division, replacing Maj. Gen. Lionel G. McGarr, who leaves Tuesday to take charge of the U.S. Army Caribbean Command.

Congress Highlights

WASHINGTON (P)—Senators investigating the McCarthy-Armey row get a chance to question Army Counselor John G. Adams, a principal in the hot dispute.

This is Adams' third day as a witness before the Senate Investigative Subcommittee, which is trying to thresh the truth out of charges and countercharges exchanged by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and high Pentagon officials.

Ray H. Jenkins, the subcommittee's special counsel, cross-examined Adams all day yesterday. Adams held pretty closely to the account which he and Secretary of the Army Stevens had given in earlier testimony; that Roy M. Cohn, the subcommittee's regular counsel, and McCarthy himself used improper pressures in an effort to win special Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, an unpaid McCarthy consultant before he was drafted.

McCarthy and Cohn have denied this charge — one of the basic issues in the dispute — and have charged, in turn, that Stevens and Adams tried to use Schine as a "hostage" to deflect or halt the subcommittee's hunt for Communists in the Army.

The count showed the Laborites gained 546 council seats while losing 34. The Conservatives picked up 60, but lost 445.

There was a similar swing to the Labor party in borough elections held last week in Scotland.

Despite the sharp swing to Labor, the local elections did not necessarily provide a key to the national political situation. Nationally, the Labor party is badly split as a result of left-wing leader Aneurin Bevan's rebellion against the endorsement by the party's moderate leadership of the Conservative government's "pro-American" foreign policy.

DEBT LIMIT — Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) says he's still firmly opposed to boosting the national debt limit. The administration last year asked Congress to raise the debt ceiling from the present 275 billion to 290 billion dollars. The House approved, but the Senate Finance Committee bottled up the proposed increase. Byrd was one of those who fought the boost in the committee. Byrd re-emphasizes his opposition after a statement by a Treasury Department official that this Congress must approve a boost in the debt limit.

Labor Party Gains 509 Seats In Local Voting

LONDON (P)—Britain's Labor party surged forward today with a net gain of 509 seats in returns from borough council elections in England and Wales. The Conservatives suffered a sharp setback.

Results of yesterday's balloting showed the Laborites had wrested control of 13 borough councils, including York, Northampton, Reading, Colchester and Ipswich. All 13 had previously been dominated by Conservatives or Independents.

The count showed the Laborites gained 546 council seats while losing 34. The Conservatives picked up 60, but lost 445.

Eight Million Expected to Vote In ROK Election

SEOUL (P)—An expected eight million voters next Thursday elect a new National Assembly in what may be South Korea's most important election in its six-year constitutional history.

The issues are few, but the slogans are plentiful.

Unification and a better standard of living are two of the more popular appeals to voters.

But the importance of the election may lie in the makeup of the 203-member Assembly, which will oust President Syngman Rhee in office, barring a constitutional amendment.

By law, Rhee must step down in 1956 after eight years. The new Assembly will serve until 1958.

Many new men, including some of unknown political stature, will sit in the next assembly. Their strength and weakness and their party affiliations may hold the key to Rhee's future.

Then he took Harising's car, abandoned it near McClure and commandeered another, forcing the driver, Arthur Baker of Holgate, to drive him to Toledo, Barrels said.

Some men around the 79-year-old President are quietly working for a constitutional amendment giving him a life term.

Rhee has said he would accept "if it were the will of the people."

But without a solid Liberal majority in the incoming legislature, there is little likelihood of such an amendment passing.

No party held a clear-cut majority in the outgoing Assembly. Liberals held 93 seats but assemblymen often switched party lines.

Man Stabs Another, Does Him Big Favor

DETROIT (P)—Samuel Wilson stabbed Felix Hammett in the stomach and actually did him a favor, police reported. They explained it this way:

The pair argued and Wilson slashed Hammett. Doctors at Detroit's Receiving Hospital looked at the wound and discovered Wilson had laid bare Hammett's appendix.

The appendix was badly infected. Doctors finished the appendectomy and the patient recovered.

Wilson didn't seem to mind the 60-day jail sentence, but said he was unhappy about having to pay Hammett's $373 medical bill.

Police Nab Young Escapee After He Wounds Marshal

CINCINNATI (P)—A young man who escaped from Illinois deputies Wednesday was captured here late last night after critically wounding a town marshal.

Henry County Sheriff Fred H. Bartels said he was holding 23-year-old Arthur Peters and quoted him as saying:

"I guess I must be crazy."

Bartels said Peters had forced a taxi driver at gunpoint to bring him to Ohio. After leaving the cab, the sheriff said, Peters fired on Harry Hartings, elderly town marshal of McClure, when the officer tried to pick him up while he was hitchhiking.

Hauled into police court on a charge of stealing two sets of cuff links from a downtown store, Ray A. Moore, 34, told Judge A. L. Luehbers:

"I've never done anything like this before in my life. Judge, I was drinking and listening to the baseball game. When Hofman hit that home run in the ninth and the Giants beat the Reds, I really started drinking. And I don't remember anything after that."

The judge fined Moore $50 and costs.

Says Korea Is Land Of Orphans, Disabled Vets Needing Our Aid

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—Korea "appears to be a nation of orphans and disabled veterans," Henry J. Mahady, national commander of the American Veterans of World War II, said today on his return from Korea.

"Nothing can describe the misery and horror of the war's impact on the Koreans," the Amvets commander said.

"We can't let them go by default to the Communists, whose only secret of success is that they've come to feed hungry people at the opportune time."

The attorney from Latrobe, Pa.,

was one of six representatives of veterans organizations who toured Korea in connection with the 20-million-dollar relief drive of the American-Korean Foundation.

New Move To United Front

US Is Opening Talks With South Asian Countries to Join Against Communists

WASHINGTON, May 13—(AP)—The United States, it was learned today, is opening conversations with several South Asian countries, including India, to give them an opportunity to join a united front against Communist power.

Secretary of State Dulles and his chief aides regard the diplomatic move as an extremely delicate one. They have designed it in such a way that none of the five countries principally involved has to say "yes" or "no."

Of the five it is expected that India and Indonesia will show no interest in joining in such a co-operative enterprise at this stage. Their foreign policies to date have aimed at a kind of neutrality between the Communist and non-Communist blocs.

On the other hand Western officials have believed that Burma, Pakistan or Ceylon—perhaps all of them—are interested in lining up with the free world nations in opposing Red aggression.

These five are known as the "Colombo powers." The Prime Ministers of the five nations met last month at Colombo, Ceylon, where they split along policy lines. India and Indonesia sought to concentrate on the denunciation of colonialism whereas the other three wanted also to include communism among threats to world peace. The result was a compromise resolution warning Reds and anti-Reds alike to watch their step.

While Secretary Dulles has been concentrating on trying to win the active and early cooperation of five other Asian countries and five Pacific powers in the development of a new anti-Communist alliance, Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy has handled the talks with the Colombo group. The British government has also been in close contact with the Colombo group, all of which are members of the British Commonwealth except Indonesia.

Today Murphy conferred with Indonesian Ambassador Moekarto Notowidigdo and scheduled a session with Indian Ambassador G. L. Mehta.

He saw Burmese Ambassador James Barrington last Monday and it was said that he intends shortly to see the diplomatic representatives of Pakistan and Ceylon.

Murphy was reported to be telling the diplomats in general what the United States proposed to do about setting up an alliance, the fact that it wants members countries to be prepared to fight if necessary, the defensive nature of its general intentions and the state of its negotiations on this whole question.

The nations thus informed automatically have an opportunity to indicate whether they would like to participate. If they are not interested in pursuing the matter further all they have to do is drop the subject.

State Won't Take Action in Rolla School Board Fuss

JEFFERSON CITY, May 13 (AP)—A group of Rolla parents appeared convinced tonight it would be an all summer job to iron out that Phelps County town's school board fuss.

Four parents and a representative of the high school students—who walked out last week but went back to classes this week—met with Huber Wheeler, state commissioner of education here.

About all they got was Wheeler's notice that the present school board is legally qualified as administrators of the district. Any change in the school board personnel will be up to the people on the local front. The state will take no action.

The parents are up in arms because four members of the six-man board, they said, dismissed "some of our best qualified teachers" and thereby jeopardized the schools' ratings.

First the youngsters walked out a week ago. Then the parents backed them up. And the four board members under fire refused to resign to clear the way for a new board—one that would do like the parents and the youngsters feel they should.

Finally, the students agreed to go back to school if the parents' group would continue the fight. That will give the youngsters a chance to complete these last two weeks of the present school term.

No Understanding From Gov. Donnelly Keeps School Issue

ELDORADO SPRINGS, May 13 (AP)—A Southwest Missouri State College professor charged tonight the big difficulty in a solution of Missouri's school problem "is the lack of sympathetic understanding on the part of the governor."

W. V. Cheek, head of the department of business administration at the Springfield College, devoted much of his high school commencement address to Gov. Phil Donnelly's veto of the $9,250,000 school bonus fund and the chief executive's refusal to consider school problems in a special session of the Legislature.

"Gov. Phil M. Donnelly has not only been opposed to sound state support for the public schools," he said in his prepared address, "but he has thwarted and handicapped the work of the duly elected representatives of the people x x x in their efforts to provide for public schools."

Cheek said Donnelly's campaign speeches led him to believe "he was a friend of the public schools," and added:

"But like thousands of others, I was disillusioned and have been sorely disappointed in his inconsistencies and in his utter disregard for the conditions of the public schools and for the obstinate manner in which he has been at 'loggerheads' with the General Assembly."

He quoted the governor as saying the state's expenditures for its public schools had increased 3,542 per cent since 1949. Cheek, by way of contrast, said in the same period the state's expenditures for all services had increased 5,274 per cent.

On the subject of teachers' salaries, Cheek quoted the governor as saying salaries of Missouri's teachers had increased 136.5 per cent in the past 12 years. The speaker said the figure actually was 141.5 per cent, but pointed out that was far below the national increase of 170 per cent for all of the nation's workers.

Cheek said Missouri ranks 40th in the per cent of her citizens' income she spends on current educational needs of her children; Missouri's teachers get $550 a year less than the national average and that more than one out of every four teachers graduated from the state's colleges accept teaching positions in other states the first year after graduation.

"When anyone attacks the fundamental principles upon which our American way of life depends, his hand must be called whether he is the governor or the janitor who sweeps out the governor's mansion," Cheek said. "Mr. Donnelly asked for this explanation when he sent the scathing reply to the General Assembly. All members of the General Assembly are genuine Americans, and I predict that unless Mr. Donnelly treats them as such in the 64th General Assembly, he is in for a rough ride."

Sedalians Go To Kansas City For Academy

Group on Trip To Promote Local Site for School

The promotion of Sedalia as a prospective site for the Air Academy took another step Wednesday when a group of Sedalians, including Mayor Julian H. Bagby and Claude L. Boul, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, visited civic leaders in Kansas City to enlist their support for the location of the academy in the Sedalia area.

Accompanying Bagby and Boul were D. S. Lamm, lawyer, H. R. Harris, president of the Third National Bank, and Jack Cunningham, president of the Sedalia Ice and Cold Storage Company. The group discussed the advantages of the Knob Noster site over other proposed locations.

Boul, recently returned from Washington, where he obtained a reaffirmation of support from Missouri senators and congressmen to give every possible assistance in behalf of the Sedalia site, emphasized that the proposed one at Knob Noster has a combination of distinct advantages, not enjoyed by any other location.

The abundant water supply and consistent ideal weather conditions were points of discussion.

The Kansas Citians were briefed on other important advantages. It was pointed out that the location of the Air Academy at Knob Noster State Park would afford Air Force officials, cadets and their families a central point that could be reached easily from anywhere in the United States with only a few hours flying time.

Boul added that the proposed site is adjacent to the most modern type of air base in existence today.

Today Murphy conferred with Indonesian Ambassador Moekarto Notowidigdo and scheduled a session with Indian Ambassador G. L. Mehta.

He saw Burmese Ambassador James Barrington last Monday and it was said that he intends shortly to see the diplomatic representatives of Pakistan and Ceylon.

Murphy was reported to be telling the diplomats in general what the United States proposed to do about setting up an alliance, the fact that it wants members countries to be prepared to fight if necessary, the defensive nature of its general intentions and the state of its negotiations on this whole question.

State Won't Take Action in Rolla School Board Fuss

DETROIT, May 13 (AP)—Little Carole Timite was found suffocated today in an accorion case, 14 hours after more than 250 searchers looked everywhere but in the living room of her suburban Farmington Township home.

Her grief-stricken mother, who wears a hearing aid, unknowingly sat only a few feet from Carol's tomb while the all-night search went on.

Mrs. Frank Timite discovered the body of her 2½-year-old daughter when she opened the case to put away her son's accordion.

Shortly after the site commission visited the Sedalia Air Base, the Chambers of Commerce of Kansas City and Warrensburg joined Sedalia in the recommendation of the Knob Noster location.

There has been no comment from the commission, which is studying many other proposals. Sedalia officials believe the location here is receiving very serious consideration.

Donnelly Thanks Western Railroads For Hay Lift Aid

JEFFERSON CITY, May 13 (AP)—Gov. Donnelly extended to the Western railroads today Missouri's thanks for the help they gave during the freight hay program.

The drought battling program began last Oct. 26 and ended May 10. During the period the state paid out about $9 million as its share of the freight costs on some 742,000 tons of hay.

But the 30 railroads contributed, too. They cut the freight rate on hay in half for most of the period of the program's operation.

Some of them stayed with their half-rate schedule to the end of the program.

Donnelly said he believed the contribution of the railroads must have totaled about $6,750,000.

"By this generous action the railroads of the state of Missouri and others within the Western Association made it possible for the drought emergency program to operate successfully and to attain the end for which it was established," Donnelly wrote to each of the railroads.

The railroads have made one of the most outstanding contributions that I have seen private enterprise, not only to the welfare and prosperity, but to every citizen of Missouri, but to every citizen of the state,"

Formula To Unify Korea

Most of Principles Cited by British Secretary Eden Already Rejected

GENEVA, May 13 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden laid down today the "absolute minimum" of Western requirements for a formula to unify Korea.

He urged action upon them by 19-nation conference on Korea, but most of the principles Eden cited have been rejected already by the Communists. The Reds were not expected to change their views.

With Eden's declaration the effort here to find a plan for unifying Korea moved out of its primary stage. Despite sharp East-West disagreement, a British spokesman said the talking on Korea "may last a long time yet."

All delegations, except that of Luxembourg, now have stated their views on the Korean situation. There was no indication Luxembourg wanted to speak. No date was set for the next meeting on Korea. Eden suggested it might be a restricted season, devoted to bringing together differing viewpoints.

Two of the points made by Eden today—tree elections supervised by the United Nations and proportional representation of North and South Koreans on any international organization—are absolutely opposed to the Communist program for Korea.

U. S. Explodes 4th or 5th H' Blast in 1954

AEC and Defense Dep't. Announces Successful Series

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—The United States exploded its fourth—and perhaps its fifth—hydrogen bomb of the year during the past few days, it was reported tonight.

The atomic energy commission and the Defense Department announced successful completion of the 1954 series of "thermonuclear weapons" tests in the Pacific.

There was no mention in the announcement of how many explosions there were. But three blasts previously have been reported—on March 1, March 26 and April 6. And it was understood there has been at least one more blast during the past week or so.

The time lag since April 6 was sufficient for at least one more explosion. And there were indications that, while the fourth explosion of the year went off at the Bikini proving ground, a fifth shot could have been made at Eniwetok Atoll.

The joint announcement declared the tests in 1952 were successful in the development of thermonuclear weapons. Further, it called these tests essential to national security and said they "contributed materially" to the security of the United States and the whole free world.

State police said Carole had crawled into the empty, black-felt-lined case while playing with her toys on the living room floor. The lid fell, locking automatically.

Mrs. Timite, because of her poor hearing, never heard the child's muffled struggle although she was in the next room preparing supper.

Carol, a curly-haired tot, had been missing since supertime Wednesday night. At first, Mrs. Timite sobbed, she thought Carol had toddled outside to play. The child didn't appear for supper.

Searchers scoured the neighborhood and dragged two lakes by torchlight before Mrs. Timite made her horrifying discovery.

Collision of a Truck, Tractor-Trailer Fatal

ST. LOUIS, May 13 (AP)—A driver died in the blazing cab of his tractor-trailer today in a collision with another truck on U. S. Highway 66 in St. Louis County.

The Missouri Highway Patrol identified the victim as Randolph Hefler, 44, of Keene, Tex., driver for R. E. Bascom Furniture Co. of Keene.

Injured in the accident were Howard C. Thrasher of Liberal, Mo., driver of the second truck, and Jesse Hardy Howard, 52, of Keene, who was traveling with Hefler.

Seniors Present Kid Day Assembly at School Friday

By Norman Griswold

Kid Day activities started early Friday for Smith-Cotton High School seniors. The first group, in decorated cars, began parading about 4 a.m., attired in kid outfits.

First item on the program of the day was the judging of the best dressed boy and girl, with awards going to David Alexander and Rosalie McFall.

Next was the Kid Day assembly which was held in the SCHS auditorium. Some 100 individuals took part in the well executed program. Three masters of ceremonies presided. The first was Melvin Jones. The first group to perform was Charles Brady, Jack Isgur and David Menefee. They appeared in the form of an orchestra with a record accompanist. Then six girls, dressed identically, Mary Bridges, Gertrude Dunn, Joan Wheeler, Joella Brereton, Maurine Hoffman and Betty Greer, recited a clever poem.

The Will, an accumulation of articles which the seniors plan to leave to the school or designated students, was read by Gene Watts and Nancy Lester. At the completion of the reading, a song was given by Ada Louise Durrill and group. Donna Richardson and Marvin Bohon sang a duet, "What's Your Name?"

Another poem was recited by Lillian Bergman, Anita Miller, Marilyn Latham and Shirley Morris.

The next appearance on the program was three boys, Ken Joe Buhlig, Ronald "Porkchop" Malone, and Lanny "Leakie" Benson. They joined in telling the student body an original joke, and sang a song, "Student's Cross over the Bridge."

The remainder of the Will was read by Lanny Benson, Barbara Grady and Ben Neal.

Don Hofheins then took over the job of master of ceremonies and first introduced 14 girls, all dressed in the same fashion. The group, which consisted of Nancy Vaughan, Judy Blaine, Barbara Arnold, Dorothy Joye, Joyce Witt, Wilma Ash, Joy Harmon, Sara Harned, Nancy Harned, Carolee Harned, Shirley Burnett, Sue Hamilton, Judy Michener and Rosie Rissler, sang "Santa Baby" and danced. Next to be introduced was a vocal duet, "Hey, Good Lookin'," by Norman "Legs" Griswold and Chester "Che" Babe' O'Bannon.

Eight identically dressed girls, consisting of Ruth Waters, JoAnn Vaughn, Barbara Guymon, Janet Satorius, Sandra Gates, Betty Lazenby, Nancy Summers and Elaine Bohon, sang "Gotta Along Without Ya" and danced. The next to appear was Melvin Jones, Richard Smith, Kerry Gentry, Carl Matthews and Bill Williams. They presented a pantomime which was a song, "Kinsey Wrote A Book." A group of girls dressed alike, Dean Hinlein, Elvyn Kroonen, Doris Johnson and Anna Mae Wooley, sang a song. The last to appear on the second division of the program was Don Hofheins and Shirley Kirkpatrick. The two sang a duet, "A Penny A Pinch."

The last master of ceremonies was Richard Smith. He first announced five persons who read the senior's Prophecy, which consisted of things which may or will happen in the future to the present senior class members. After the reading, four boys, dressed in decorated diapers, gave an original reading. This group consisted of Darrell Ford, Charles Roberts, Jim Schmitt and Ben Neal. After the reading, Betty Ann Byrd and her group, including Norma Wheeler and Anita Botcher, sang a song.

The next group to perform was nine girls dressed as Scottish 'kids'. The group, more familiarly known as the DEB's sang a song and then performed a dance. This group consisted of Joy Cunningham, Carolyn Heck, Barbara Grady, Nancy Lester, Jeaine Sagar, Mary Peters, Pat Korando and Barbara bara Black.

The final act was a duet by John Louque and Gene Watts. The two sang "I'm Movin' On." Mrs. Thelma Cook and J. Wiley Atkins were presented gift certificates for their part in serving as class sponsors.

As a farewell song, the entire group sang, as the curtain was being closed, "May The Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

At 12:15 p.m., the Kid Day picnic was held at the J. H. Reine Farm, north of Sedalia. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Reine are the parents of Jody Reine, a senior. Several members of the Smith-Cotton faculty helped in serving, including Forrest Drake, Edna Snell, Lois Gordon, Ralph Van Der Camp, Pinkney Miller, E. C. Schlichting and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dow. The class sponsors, Mrs. Cook and Mr. Atkins, supervised the putting.

After the picnic, the group attended a Kid Day movie at the Fox Theater.

The final activity on the day's program was the Kid Day dance which was held in the Smith-Cotton Little Theater. Music was furnished by a donated assortment of records. Several members of the faculty were in attendance. The decorations were in accordance with the Kid Day theme.

Missouri History--

Stagecoach King of the West Operated Through Missouri

This Missourian operated one of the most colorful transportation companies in the West after the Civil War and became a financier of railroads and steamship lines. Do you know his name?

1. WHERE IN MISSOURI DID HE LIVE?

A. He came to Western Missouri from Kentucky about 1837 when he was 18 and lived in the new town of Weston from 1838 to 1859.

2. HOW DID HE GET HIS START IN BUSINESS?

A. The Missouri frontier was a land of opportunity for an energetic, ambitious boy. In the boom town atmosphere of Weston this young man tried his hand at several enterprises. He operated a grain shop, traded with the Indians in Kansas, and at the age of 21 owned a hotel. He married Miss Anna Calvert of Weston in an elopement in 1840.

A handsome six-footer, he had very little schooling, but was an expert manager of men. In 1846 the Mexican War turned his interest to the transportation business and from then on it became his most absorbing career.

He obtained a lucrative contract for freighting supplies from the Missouri River region to the troops of Doniphan and Kearny during the Mexican War, at profits as high as 200 per cent. When the war ended he bought great quantities of government surplus mules, oxen and wagons at bargain prices.

The next group to perform was nine girls dressed as Scottish 'kids'. The group, more familiarly known as the DEB's sang a song and then performed a dance. This group consisted of Joy Cunningham, Carolyn Heck, Barbara Grady, Nancy Lester, Jeaine Sagar, Mary Peters, Pat Korando and Barbara

Webster Won't Swear in Smith During Recess

JEFFERSON CITY, May 13 (AP)—House speaker Richard M. Webster (R) of Jasper County today turned down the request of Coleman R. Smith, Milan Democrat, to be sworn in during the legislative recess as state representative from Sullivan County.

Smith was held by Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton as unqualified to serve because there was no record that he recovered his civil rights after serving six months of a two year reformatory term for stealing timber in 1939.

But May 3, Smith wrote Webster he stood ready to be sworn in and "Your failure to notify me of the time, place and hour for me to present myself within the next ten days from this date, will be by me taken as a refusal to perform your duty."

In his reply today, Webster said since the attorney general held Smith was not qualified the House had dropped the whole question before adjourning the special session last month.

He said:

"Even if you were eligible to serve as a member of the Missouri General Assembly, I could not at this time administer the oath of office." Court cases have indicated the speaker's authority during a period of legislative adjournment do not extend to swearing in new members, Webster said.

He told Smith, who is a candidate in the August Democratic primary, "Our constitution requires that a member of the Missouri General Assembly be a qualified voter in the state of Missouri for a period of two years prior to election to the office."

Dr. Bressler-Pettis Dies; Was Lions' Goodwill Ambassador

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Charles W. Bressler-Pettis, 65, known in six continents for his work and travels in behalf of Lions International, which gave him the special title "ambassador of good will," died yesterday.

Oscoda Hospital officials said death apparently came from a heart attack.

Dr. Bressler-Pettis, a native of Grant City, Mo., maintained homes in Kissimmee and MacFarland, Wis.

He was a graduate of the University of Missouri and Harvard University medical school. He served in the British Army medical corps until the United States entered World War I, when he was commissioned in the U.S. army.

Dr. Bressler-Pettis designed and built a 400-foot high "monument of states" here with some 23,000 stones collected during his travels.

Surviving besides the widow is a sister, Mrs. R. H. Lowry, Grant City.

Donnelly's Brother Dies at Tulsa Home

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly was notified by telephone today of the sudden death of his brother, Thomas J. Donnelly, 56, at his home in Tulsa, Okla.

The Missouri governor said he planned to go to Tulsa either today or tomorrow for funeral services.

The brother, a businessman and World War I veteran, was born in Lebanon, Mo., but had resided in Tulsa for the past 30 years. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Thomas and Robert, and a daughter, Helen.

Robert is associated with the governor's son, David, in law practice at Lebanon.

The governor said although funeral arrangements have not been completed, he believed services will be held in Tulsa with burial in Lebanon Saturday or Sunday.

4-Legged Duck Born On Farm Near Spring Fork

A four-legged duck seems to be causing little stir among its feathered friends on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, Spring Fork, but the Smiths and their neighbors are anything but calm.

The unusually gifted quacker has two regular legs upon which it rambles about the barnyard, but it also boasts an extra set of legs, perfectly formed, protruding down and backward from its tail. The extra legs do not touch the ground. Apparently the duck cannot move them, for when it sits down, the extra legs stick out in back.

The duck was hatched Tuesday night. It seems normal in every other respect but in the number of legs.

Reports Need of Huge Panama Canal Project

PANAMA (AP)—John Seybold, Canal Zone governor, says more than two million cubic yards of rock on the Panama Canal of Contractors Hill must be removed in a job that will take months and cost millions of dollars.

He said yesterday that despite the blasting job necessary to clean up the break in the hill, he did not think enough material would fall into the canal to bother traffic.

Runaway' Car Injures Woman, Couldn't Drive

TOPEKA, Kan., May 13 (AP)—A 76-year-old woman who doesn't know how to drive was seriously injured today in a "runaway" car.

Mrs. Ida E. Bailey was going for a drive with her daughter and entered the car from the driver's side. The vehicle had an automatic transmission and was idling in the gear drive.

Mrs. Bailey apparently stepped on the accelerator accidentally and the car sped away through a garden and crashed into a tree.

She suffered fractures of the neck, ribs, nose and one leg, a chest injury and face lacerations.

Laniel Wins Confidence Ballot By Only 2 Votes

PARIS, May 13 (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel won a National Assembly confidence ballot by only two votes tonight.

From the small margin of his victory it appeared his government would be thrown out of office as soon as the talks on Indochina end at Geneva.

The Assembly vote was 239 to 287. Despite the nominal victory, the closeness of the vote underlined that the Laniel Cabinet was on its last legs, its prestige severely weakened by the fall of the Indochina fort of Dien Bien Phu a week ago.

Laniel pleaded with the Assembly not to throw him out of office now and thus open a crisis while critical negotiations for an Indochina peace were going on at Geneva.

Observers here felt that the position of Foreign Minister Georges Bidault at Geneva had been weakened because there was an open question whether he now represented a majority opinion in the French Parliament. Many deputies who supported Laniel in a vote of confidence the day before Dien Bien Phu fell voted against him today.

In Geneva, however, a spokesman said the confidence vote heartened the French delegation. He said Bidault probably would go to Paris for the weekend to discuss the political situation with Laniel and other leaders.

Bidault was scheduled to reopen the Indochina debate tomorrow at Geneva.

One suggestion that has been made is to close the building entirely Saturday afternoon and Sunday, when the state offices are not open. That would cut down on the damage but it also would prevent a lot of tourists and weekend visitors from seeing the inside of the building.

Involved is the issuance of $1 million in 3½ per cent first mortgage notes to mature in 30 years and the sale of 22,284 additional shares of $10 common stock at an average price of $13 a share.

The construction will allow the utility to supply the power for Elmo from its own facilities instead of buying it from Iowa Power and Light Co.

The commission also gave Springfield City Water Co. the right to clear up a $1,085,000 short term indebtedness preparatory to financing a new reservoir on the Little Sac River.

Costello Convicted On Three Counts Of Tax Evasion

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Frank Costello, once the king of gamblers was convicted tonight on three counts of federal income tax evasion.

The 63-year-old Costello, dressed as conservatively as any banker, bowed his head into his trembling hands as the foreman of the jury announced the verdict.

It was the third time in his long and checkered career that Costello was convicted of a crime.

The tension of sweating out the eight-hour deliberations of the jury over, Costello pulled a handkerchief from his breast pocket and dabbed weakly at his forehead.

He faces a possible total of 15 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

The onetime underworld kingpin, who has argued that he's been going straight for years, was acquitted on one of the four counts in the indictment. He was charged with evading $52,239 in income taxes for he years 1946 through 1949.

Costello's conviction was similar to the 1931 income tax rap that toppled the late Al Capone from the pinnacle of prohibition notoriety and put him behind bars for an 11-year term.

Grants St. Joseph Firm Right to Build Long Transmission Line

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—State Public Service Commission today granted St. Joseph Light and Power Co. authority to build some six miles of 12,000-volt transmission line from Clearmont to Elmo, both in Nodaway County.

The construction will allow the utility to supply the power for Elmo from its own facilities instead of buying it from Iowa Power and Light Co.

The commission also gave Springfield City Water Co. the right to clear up a $1,085,000 short term indebtedness preparatory to financing a new reservoir on the Little Sac River.
